

THE SPIRIT LAKE REGATTA.

All the Conditions Favorable Yesterday for Aquatic Sports. RESULT OF THE JUNIOR CONTESTS.

A Depleted Treasury Causes the Disbandment of the Des Moines Western Association Club—Other Sporting News.

HOTEL OMAHA, SPIRIT LAKE, Ia., July 15.—(Special Telegram to THE BEE.)—There is an old adage among boaters that a race is never won until the flag has been hoisted. This fact was well exemplified today in the races of the sixth annual Spirit Lake regatta, and it may give four Council Bluffs boys elegant gold medals, although they were the slowest of four crews. They were put at a big disadvantage because L. C. Dale, with only three days' training—practically nothing—had to take the place of a crack oarsman, Thomas. Other members of the crew are H. W. Patterson, Lewis Seaman and J. H. McWilliams.

The shell races were a mile and a half with a cross wind made the time slower than usual. The day was perfect—bright, but delightfully cool. In the junior four-oared race Council Bluffs caught the wind first, but they were gradually outtraced by Cedar Rapids, Dubuque and Burlington. The last race was run out into the lake and had to turn almost at a right angle to get back. Cedar Rapids got around their flag all right, but the judges are of the opinion that Burlington and Davenport made the turn from starboard to port instead of in the opposite direction, which would disqualify them. Council Bluffs steered a beautiful course and gained enough to win second. Coming up to the flag the four crews were pretty well together, but after the turn they strung out into a procession in the following order: Cedar Rapids, Burlington, Davenport and Council Bluffs. Council Bluffs had a lead of five lengths, pulled easily, and never was a race more surely won until within a hundred yards of the mark. It was about a warning of the rider of the Cedar Rapids shell suddenly flew into mid-air while he rose against the bottom of the lake and four shingles were sent flying. The boatmen until a row boat should pick them up. The chamber in the bow of the boat filled with water through a hole in the deck and sank in about five minutes. Davenport, in 23 minutes, 55 seconds, Davenport in 22:30 and Council Bluffs in 33:10.

One of the rules in this and most other regatta associations is that the boat must be by its own means. This rule would lose the race to Cedar Rapids if there were no complications. Cedar Rapids, however, Davenport and Burlington had a broken hole in her deck which caused the sinking accident. Davenport crossed the line first, but Cedar Rapids, while it was the bow of the shell that sank, Davenport denies fouling, and maintains that it was Cedar Rapids that was out of her water. The judges ruled that Cedar Rapids had fouled, and that she was disqualified for making a wrong turn, the race and the medals will go to Council Bluffs.

The free-for-all single was won by J. G. Courbett of Chicago in 11:52. G. W. Turner of McGregor was second. The junior pair was won by Davenport in 11:59. Dubuque second, J. L. Dodge and N. P. Dodge, Jr., of Council Bluffs third, Burlington fourth. Cedar Rapids finished second, but was disqualified for making a wrong turn.

Tomorrow's contests will be senior races. Later—After the regatta had adjourned, the junior four-oared race to Council Bluffs. The claim of foul made by Cedar Rapids against Davenport was not sustained. Davenport was disqualified for turning in the wrong direction and Burlington for not going around a flag in making her turn. These decisions are based on rules long established in boating and enforced in almost every regatta. There was an unusual number in this race, and the combination happened to be such as to give the race to the last crew.

OVERCOME BY DEEDLY AIR.

Wyatt Loney, a Stanton Farmer, Meets Death in a Wall.

VAN WYCK'S ADDRESS AT WATERLOO.

Olaf Bergstrom, Charged with the Murder of E. G. Edholm Acquitted at Gothenburg—News from Over the State.

STANTON, Neb., July 15.—(Special Telegram to THE BEE.)—At 3:30 o'clock today a terrible accident occurred on the farm of William Loney, four miles northwest of this place, which resulted in the death of his brother, Wyatt Loney. The circumstances are as follows: At 3:30 o'clock Charles Wyatt and William Loney, in company with John Stingley, attempted to clean out a well from which water was taken for stock only. Charles descended first, but had only reached the bottom when he was overpowered by foul air and lost his hold of the rope. Stingley went down immediately and hooked into Charles's clothes, but the hook tore out and Stingley was then overpowered.

Then Wyatt went down, hooked on to Stingley and the latter was hauled out by William Loney, but in the meantime Wyatt was overpowered, thus leaving two dying men in the well. Mr. Loney at once ringed the well, and with the other two men, they succeeded in bringing aid from the harvest fields in the vicinity.

Means were resorted to to remove the prominent air, but the well and attempts made to rescue the unfortunate ones, but not until the air was purified could they be rescued. They were finally removed after being imprisoned and unconscious for one hour and thirty minutes. Charles Loney and John Stingley were rescued, but the efforts of the attending physicians failed to bring the remaining victim to life.

Van Wyck's Address at Waterloo. WATERLOO, Neb., July 15.—(Special Telegram to THE BEE.)—About six hundred people assembled at the picnic grounds, from the alliance of this county, today. Banners were borne by each alliance, with mottoes: "Everything Mortgaged But Our Vote"; "Godsend the Plow"; "I love the Farmer"; "Dorsey; patriotically added—and his chanted motto: "Anti-Edholm Steer Introduced Hon. C. W. Van Wyck, who was received with three cheering cheers, and he addressed the audience for his cordial reception. "We have not to consider questions of interest. It is the object of all to engage in what is remunerative. The country is divided according to interest. In some sections of the country the interest is beneficial, and there it is advocated, no matter whether democratic or republican."

At this point the speaker was interrupted by the firing of firecrackers and other sounds from a short distance from the stand. He asked if that was genuine, and took occasion to refer to a feature of prohibiting gambling at the Lincoln fair, which was his subject while in the stand. He led him to the subject of agriculture, and thus Louisiana and Governor Nicholls' veto were treated at length.

He then came back to where the firecracker interruption found him, and spoke of Randall and Kelly, Pennsylvania's two great rail men, who had been in the city. He said that a republican, who agreed on the tariff, showing it was not a question of politics, but of interest. The interest in the tariff was not a question of politics, but of interest. The interest in the tariff was not a question of politics, but of interest.

THEY WILL HAVE A HOSPITAL.

Preliminary Steps Taken at the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

SOME ELOQUENT ADDRESSES DELIVERED. A Board of Leading Clerical and Lay Representatives Appointed—Plans and Hopes of the Originators—The Work to Be Done.

For the purpose of taking preliminary steps for the establishment of a Methodist hospital in Omaha about one hundred and fifty members of the church, including the leading ministers of the church, gathered at the First M. E. church last night. The project has been the subject of consideration in Methodist circles for some time and considerable enthusiasm has been aroused. Dr. E. K. Young was introduced by Presiding Elder Glendinning in a speech outlining the objects of the meeting.

Dr. Young is the pastor of a leading M. E. church of Philadelphia and is on his summer vacation in Omaha. He opened his address by explaining that he was not in Omaha to talk, and followed by an introduction with an eloquent address illustrating the beauty and helpfulness of organized benevolence. He explained that when the Christian put his hand to any enterprise which relieved suffering or sorrow he was doing what God ordered him to do. We who profess to follow Christ, he said, are God's helpers in this world.

These hospitals and other church charities are the means of calling out the benevolences of men. He spoke of the benevolences of Carnegie, Girard and other millionaires who realized the needs of humanity would live in the hearts of Americans for generations to come. He said that the men who had amassed millions and left it to their children who should go on accumulating it, were doing what God wanted them to do. The unburied of the labor world which saw these masses of wealth increasing itself to no benefit to the world.

He then introduced an eloquent address of half an hour's duration with a poetical peroration, exhorting the people present to go on in their great work, realizing that in carrying it to successful conclusion they were doing the will of the Master.

Dr. Kynett of New York was then introduced and explained that the address of the speaker had been delivered. He had one or two thoughts to deliver. We need never fear to follow where God leads the way. The speaker told of how a church in Philadelphia had held up the work of these hospitals as an example for the people of Omaha. He said that the church in Philadelphia had held up the work of these hospitals as an example for the people of Omaha.

He confessed that in view of the needs of the people of Omaha he was surprised at first at the attempt to establish a hospital under the auspices of the church, but after considering the matter and asking himself whether God was with the enterprise, he was willing to acknowledge that the church was doing a good work. He elaborated upon the benefits which would accrue to the city and to the church, and closed by wishing the enterprise and those present success.

Dr. Morrison of the platform and delivered a short and pertinent address, explaining the needs of finances to keep the enterprise on its feet as well as to pay for the construction of the hospital. The constitution of the Methodist Episcopal scheme of hospitals provides for thirty trustees, nine of whom are allowed to be laymen. The speaker said that the church, Rev. Mr. Dawson was selected secretary. A meeting of the ministers had previously been held in which it was arranged that each of the twelve churches in the city should have a member of the board of trustees and that the remainder of the board of thirty should be elected at large. The following were elected: Bishop Newman, Rev. Mr. Roe, Savare, Shaub, Messrs. Rector, Dale, Fowler, C. O. Lobeck, George Baker, Frank Bryant, Sam Campbell, J. E. Fry, George H. Johnson, J. H. Thurston, Guy Barton, Clark Woodman and J. H. Millard.

Dr. Fote, secretary of the hospital committee, took the floor and explained the plan of the working of the hospital and claimed that he knew of $50,000 which would be contributed to the work. The meeting was presided over by the Rev. Dr. Kynett.

AN ARREST MADE FOR A MURDER COMMITTED IN 1861. HIAWATHA, Kan., July 15.—(Special Telegram to THE BEE.)—Great was the excitement at Troy, Doniphan county, this state, Monday, July 15, when the preliminary examination of Joseph Tribble, who was arrested July 4 at Wathen for the murder of Alexander Kincaid on September 8, 1861. Tribble was a rebel, Kincaid a man of union tendencies, although neither belonged to the regular armies. On the day mentioned, which was Sunday, the boys, both under twenty-one, met at a campmeeting. A quarrel ensued and they went to each other with their hands on their hips, Tribble with a bowie knife, Kincaid with a pistol. Tribble went to Mississippi and did not return until July 4, when he was arrested. Today he was bound over and the sum of $2,000, which he is unable to give. The most intense excitement prevailed at Troy during the trial. The court was crowded by men who had rebel tendencies and men of union tendencies and who openly stated their views. Tribble has a wife and five children in Mississippi, in desperate circumstances. He made no defense at the preliminary examination.

The Clayton-Breckenridge Case. WASHINGTON, July 15.—The house committee in elections today heard arguments by Judge John McClure of Arkansas, Clayton's representative upon the Breckenridge election case, Judge McClure began his argument by attacking Breckenridge in reply to certain statements made by that gentleman as exhibited in the Record. He charged that Breckenridge had sought to incite his party to treat him as a rebel, as they had treated Clayton. He resented the effort which, he said, had been made to make the people of Arkansas responsible for a series of crimes which he sought to show were part of a general plan carried out by politicians and ballot box stuffers and stealers with a deliberate purpose to reverse the will of the people at the polls.

Only for show. VICTORIA, B. C., July 15.—Captain St. Clair, senior officer of the English war vessels now here, said today that the reason of the gathering there in such force is to welcome the British fleet, which is coming. They have, he said, received no orders regarding Behring sea and doubts if any of them, certainly not more than a hundred.

A Big Administration. HELENA, Mont., July 15.—In the supreme court today Attorney Meyers opened the argument in the A. J. Davis case, involving an administration estimated at $11,000,000.

THEY WILL HAVE A HOSPITAL.

Preliminary Steps Taken at the First Methodist Episcopal Church.

SOME ELOQUENT ADDRESSES DELIVERED. A Board of Leading Clerical and Lay Representatives Appointed—Plans and Hopes of the Originators—The Work to Be Done.

For the purpose of taking preliminary steps for the establishment of a Methodist hospital in Omaha about one hundred and fifty members of the church, including the leading ministers of the church, gathered at the First M. E. church last night. The project has been the subject of consideration in Methodist circles for some time and considerable enthusiasm has been aroused. Dr. E. K. Young was introduced by Presiding Elder Glendinning in a speech outlining the objects of the meeting.

Dr. Young is the pastor of a leading M. E. church of Philadelphia and is on his summer vacation in Omaha. He opened his address by explaining that he was not in Omaha to talk, and followed by an introduction with an eloquent address illustrating the beauty and helpfulness of organized benevolence. He explained that when the Christian put his hand to any enterprise which relieved suffering or sorrow he was doing what God ordered him to do. We who profess to follow Christ, he said, are God's helpers in this world.

These hospitals and other church charities are the means of calling out the benevolences of men. He spoke of the benevolences of Carnegie, Girard and other millionaires who realized the needs of humanity would live in the hearts of Americans for generations to come. He said that the men who had amassed millions and left it to their children who should go on accumulating it, were doing what God wanted them to do. The unburied of the labor world which saw these masses of wealth increasing itself to no benefit to the world.

He then introduced an eloquent address of half an hour's duration with a poetical peroration, exhorting the people present to go on in their great work, realizing that in carrying it to successful conclusion they were doing the will of the Master.

Dr. Kynett of New York was then introduced and explained that the address of the speaker had been delivered. He had one or two thoughts to deliver. We need never fear to follow where God leads the way. The speaker told of how a church in Philadelphia had held up the work of these hospitals as an example for the people of Omaha. He said that the church in Philadelphia had held up the work of these hospitals as an example for the people of Omaha.

He confessed that in view of the needs of the people of Omaha he was surprised at first at the attempt to establish a hospital under the auspices of the church, but after considering the matter and asking himself whether God was with the enterprise, he was willing to acknowledge that the church was doing a good work. He elaborated upon the benefits which would accrue to the city and to the church, and closed by wishing the enterprise and those present success.

Dr. Morrison of the platform and delivered a short and pertinent address, explaining the needs of finances to keep the enterprise on its feet as well as to pay for the construction of the hospital. The constitution of the Methodist Episcopal scheme of hospitals provides for thirty trustees, nine of whom are allowed to be laymen. The speaker said that the church, Rev. Mr. Dawson was selected secretary. A meeting of the ministers had previously been held in which it was arranged that each of the twelve churches in the city should have a member of the board of trustees and that the remainder of the board of thirty should be elected at large. The following were elected: Bishop Newman, Rev. Mr. Roe, Savare, Shaub, Messrs. Rector, Dale, Fowler, C. O. Lobeck, George Baker, Frank Bryant, Sam Campbell, J. E. Fry, George H. Johnson, J. H. Thurston, Guy Barton, Clark Woodman and J. H. Millard.

Dr. Fote, secretary of the hospital committee, took the floor and explained the plan of the working of the hospital and claimed that he knew of $50,000 which would be contributed to the work. The meeting was presided over by the Rev. Dr. Kynett.
